ABSTRACT

A method of using a computer for selecting content by 5 categorizing attributes of a user in a user database, categorizing attributes of content elements in a content database, identifying a geographic location, identifying a user, and prioritizing content elements associated with the identified geographic location for presentation to the identified user by comparing the attributes of the content and the attributes of 10 the identified user.

15

20

25

30

35